Glendale
Has Too Long
Lost Prestige
By Having
No Hotel

THE assurance given to us today by Mattison B. Jones that there was no foundation to the rumor that the Glendalia hotel would not be built is good news. The explanation given for the delay was that the promoters were not able to agree on the number of stories, some advocating four and others six. A compromise was effected and Glendale's first hotel will be five stories in height.

Glendale has many distinctive features she is proud of but a distinction as the only city of 40,000 without a hotel is one we will be glad to discard.

THE citizens of Glendale are becoming skeptical on all news regarding a hotel, they have been disappointed so many times in the past, Mr. Jones' assurance that the actual construction will start this year we may count on as authentic.

THERE are cities that we know of that give credit for their growth to the fact that they have a hotel which is favorably known. One city in particular gives credit to a new hotel for a year of unprecedented growth.

Michigan City, Ind., citizens had discussed the need for an up-to-date hotel for twenty years. During this time they witnessed important conventions going to other cities around them, only because of their having hotel accommodations. Since their first hotel was built they have averaged more than one large convention a month.

GLENDALE is in the same position that Michigan City was before its first hotel was erected. We don't dare invite any convention here for we know we cannot take care of them if they did come.

It has been only a short time since we had the State Christian Endeavor convention here and at that time cots had to be placed in halls in order to accommodate the delegates. This no doubt gave Glendale a black eye and made it more evident that the lack of a hotel was a serious handicap to our city.

PORTER MOTOR BUS CO. IN FINE NEW BUILDING

The Porter Motor Bus company is today moving into the first unit of the factory it has established at the west end of California avenue across San Fernando road, and Glendalians are having opportunity today of seeing its completed product.

Two large busses, one with a capacity for thirty passengers, will tour the downtown streets. One was built for the Standard Auto Tourist Co., the other for the B & H. Transportation Co. of Long Beach. They are the output of the Los Angeles factory but were sent here for finishing. Hereafter, all the busses, including the chassis, will be made here and the company expects to turn out not less than one hundred per year.

It has a two-acre site in the tract put upon the market by T. W. Watson, in the heart of the industrial district, the deal having been consummated through the agency of Bourne & Thomson. When completed the factory will have a floor space of 10,000 square feet and when in full operation 250 to 300 men will be employed. In its Los Angeles plant it has been using 175 high salaried experts. Employees of the concern are already looking for locations in Glendale, more than fifty of them being men with families.

Before Mr. Porter, who controls practically 99 per cent of the stock of the company, decided to locate his factory in Glendale, he was offered a free site in Long Beach. He considered however that a site on San Fernando road, the great commercial highway of the state, would be an asset that would outweigh any saving effected by a free site and therefore elected to come to Glendale.

MAX GREEN STARTS BUILDING

Max Green, a well known automobile man in Glendale, has started the construction of a garage and salesroom at 420-22 East Colorado street, just west of Glendale avenue, which, it is understood, he will occupy when completed. The foundation of this building was placed last week and it is understood that the structure will be rushed to completion.

FOREST FIRES RAGING IN NORTHERN CALIF.

Large Ranches Burned Over; Gales Prostrate Telephone Poles

TOO GENEROUS NEIGHBOR GIVES OF HER GARBAGE

"Yes, we have too much garbage today."

At least Mrs. Gallagher, 1417 South Central avenue, thinks so.

It was this way—Some time during the "wee small hours" or maybe it was at noon one day recently—one one is absolutely sure when it was—some mean, miserable miscreant donated three boxes of garbage to Mrs. Gallagher, placing them in front of her home according to police records.

Mrs. Gallagher, did not want them so she called the police and asked that they be removed. Arrangements were made to do so immediately.

STOP SYSTEM MAY SPEED UP L. A. TRAFFIC

It is anticipated that the boulevard stop system inaugurated at midnight September 15 will expedite the incoming and outgoing traffic of Los Angeles. How it will work out for side-street motorists cannot be determined until the test measure has been in effect long enough to be observed by all auto drivers.

The stop system has been adopted after months of continued agitation to have motorists pause before crossing the boulevards from side streets, then cross at the first opportunity. In this way traffic can progress across intersections in an hour of the city at a 15-mile an hour speed. If this in any way works out satisfactorily to alleviate the jam of traffic in Los Angeles the system may be enlarged. There are many phases to be considered which only actual usage of the new measure can determine.

The general plan is to keep the boulevard traffic moving and let the motorists on side streets come to a full stop before crossing. Accidents also will no doubt be avoided in this way, as machines darting out from cross streets frequently collide with machines on the boulevards.

The stop system is now being tried out on the following boulevards: Wilshire from Park View to the West city limits, Mission Road from Aliso to Alhambra and Figueroa from Washington to Manchester.

WOODLANDS AND CRESCENTA GET TELEPHONE SOON

According to Manager Fred Deal, the trunk line telephone cable promised for Verdugo Woodlands and beyond has been laid to Opechee Way and from that point the service is now being carried forward by aerial lines to the east and west, which will afford good service to the Sparr Heights tract and La Crescenta. The service should be in operation by October 1, he says, and he thinks it will cure all the discontent of subscribers in that section who have suffered from congested lines carrying as many as ten subscribers. He also says the company has plenty of telephone instruments, so there will be no delay in providing service on that account.

Many months ago the poles were set for this service which it was expected would be in operation by June 1. Shortage of cable caused the delay.

PRINCESS TO TRY AMERICA

MOSCOW, Sept. 17.—Russia soon will be the poorer by 24 young women, for this is the number of brides who are, or soon will be, on their way to the United States with their American husbands, men who came out to Russia with the American Relief administration. Many of the marriages were precipitated by the withdrawal of the ARA from the Russian field.

Most of the brides speak English. With two or three exceptions they come from old and well known Russian families, reduced to meagre circumstances by the revolution, and have enjoyed exceptional educational advantages. They include two princesses and several countesses.

GLENDALE HOTEL PLANS ARE NOW FIXED

Ground to Be Broken for the Foundation by November 1

Mattison B. Jones, one of the officers and stockholders of the Glendale Hotel company has given the Press assurance that unless something altogether unforeseen happens, ground will be broken before the first of November for the beautiful hotel to be erected at the northwest corner of Brand and Broadway.

Rumors discrediting the intentions of the company and insinuating that the enterprise had fallen through, are wholly without foundation, Mr. Jones declares. He states that delay has been due to uncertainty as to the size it would be best to build at this time. A proposition to increase the height from four to six stories, was debated for some time but a compromise satisfactory to all was achieved when the unanimous decision was reached to make it five stories with a frontage of 104 feet and a depth of 100 feet.

The capital subscribed will be sufficient for this. A six-story structure would have necessitated an increase of capital stock and a delay to which all were averse.

On the space at the rear of the lot, 50x104 facing California, a 5-story annex can be built if the requirements of the future demand it will be roofed and form the entrance and beautiful lobby. Flanking it on either side and around the corner on California will be shops of the sort that always seek locations in hotels—florists, barber shops and beauty parlors, confectioners, tailors, women's wear, jewelers, etc.

Steel will be used in construction and the exterior will be of brick with terra cotta trim. The upper floors will be divided into single rooms and two-room apartments with bath.

The architect, Alfred Priest, has promised to use all the forces at his command to expedite the completion of the plans in detail and hopes they will be far enough along in 30 days for bids to be called for.

"BOOTLEG" BRINGS ABOUT ARREST

Too much "bootleg" resulted in the arrest of George H. Linton, 3041 Avenue 34, Los Angeles, in Glendale Sunday night. George took on more than he could carry, and after being examined he was given a bunk in the headquarters jail, according to police records.

FOREST FIRES SPREAD HAVOC IN CENTRAL AND NORTHERN CALIFORNIA

Thousands of Acres on Big Napa and Sonoma County Ranches Burned Over, Destroying Pasturage, Residences, Barns and Other Buildings

FIERCE WINDS FAN FLAMES, BLIND FIGHTERS

Gale Levels Telephone, Telegraph Poles, Making It Necessary to Send Appeals for Help by Runners to Nearby Cities

SANTA ROSA, Calif., Sept. 17.—Fanned by a gale, a brush and forest fire swept over the Napa ridge, burning thousands of acres on the W. D. Reynolds, Maddux and Valle ranches and sweeping across pasturage lands of nearby ranches, according to reports received here today from the fire-fighters.

More than 300 employees and inmates of the Sonoma State Home are fighting the fires and calls for help have been sent out to all nearby towns.

Buildings on the Reynolds, Maddux and Valle ranches have been burned to the ground.

Telephone and telegraph lines are down for miles, due to the gale and fire, and reports received here today stated that the state stock farm, run in connection with the state home for the feeble minded, is doomed.

Several thousand acres of pasturage have been burned on the Charles Foote stock ranch and other ranches north of Geyserville, Sonoma county. The Staggs ranch and other large ranches are reported to have been destroyed.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 17.—A score of devastating fires, forest brush and pasturage, were being swept today in near bay cities by a freak gale, according to reports from many cities.

The Napa ridge, between Napa and Solano counties was reported ablaze beyond control at 10 o'clock today with the fire sweeping across many famous ranches, carrying destruction to stock and buildings.

The flames made their way into the Tamalpais forest reserve today, according to reports from Marin county, where hundreds of acres had been burned during the night. Laytonville, Mendocino county, was the center of a series of fires, reports stated. The smoke over Laytonville was so heavy that all view of the sun was blotted out, it was stated.

Other cities and towns, including Oakland, Geyserville, Fairfield, Petaluma, Ignacio and Novato, reported brush or forest fires, and calls for fire fighters were being sent out from practically every community affected.

The gale carried down telephone and telegraph poles in the fire-swept districts, making it impossible for the fire fighters to send out calls for aid. Appeals were carried by runners to nearby cities. The gale, it was stated, was the worst in more than 25 years.

SACRAMENTO, Sept. 17.—Brush and forest fires in Placer, Eldorado, Solano and Napa and eight other counties yesterday and today, fanned by a strong north wind, had burned over thousands of acres, destroyed a number of ranch houses and threatened many others and occasioned the calling out of several thousand fire fighters, most of them soldiers from the Benicia arsenal and the male residents of Suisun, Fairfield and Benicia were on the firing line last night and today.

OAKLAND, Sept. 17.—A gale which swept through the bay cities last night and early today revived several grass fires, uprooted trees and broke off telephone and light poles in Oakland, Alameda, Hayward and adjacent cities, according to reports to the police department here today.

The grass fire in the Boy Scouts swept more than fifteen acres. Lack of water is handicapping the fire fighters, the Oakland fire department announced.

Albert Cassadio, Alameda high school boy, was blinded by dust as he was crossing a gale-swept intersection and was run down by a fire engine responding to an alarm. The boy was seriously but not fatally injured.

DAMAGED

THREE IN A ROW SEEMS MOTTO OF THIS BURGLAR

The "three in a row" stuff was carried out by an unknown burglar, Sunday night.

This fellow, who wore gloves so as to eliminate any chance of the police securing his finger prints, visited the homes of R. E. Reed, 1520 Orange Grove avenue, H. G. Moore, 1504 East Harvard and Bernard Anawatt, 1515 Orange Grove avenue, one after the other, collecting valuables from all three places before calling it "day," according to police records.

Entrance to all of the homes, state the records, was gained by jimmying a window in each.

GLENDALE FOLK IN MOTOR TRIP HAVE FINE TIME

Twenty Glendale folks met early yesterday morning and motored to Elliotta Springs, near Riverside, where they spent the day in an enjoyable picnic frolic. One of the most enjoyable features of the day's pleasure, according to several of those who took part in the fun, was the unlimited quantity of delicious fried chicken.

The old fashioned basket lunches containing all the "trimmings" were spread out under the huge live oak trees. After lunch several of those in the party took a dip in the natural sulphur spring. Those participating in the fun of the day were Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Smith, Erma and Bob Smith, Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Rattray, Miss Florence Rattray, Reg and Bob Rattray, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Boothby, Dr. Warren Z. Newton, Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Dibbern, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Pratt, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Daniels, all of Glendale, and Mrs. L. Stelzer of Ohio, and Dr. and Mrs. Dorland of Whittier.

ADDITIONS TO SALES FORCE

Several additions have been made to the selling staff of Finlay & Preston, realtors, viz Mrs. Opal E. Greenwalt, Mr. S. A. Koonits, both of Glendale, and E. A. Thomas, a realtor from Salina, Kan. Miss G. Barlow is the chief clerk and stenographer of the firm.

SEVEN MILLIONS IN PERMITS REACHED

Go "Over the Top" at 11:27 This Morning

Bustling little Glendale, this wonderful home city where there is something doing every moment, went bounding merrily over the $7,000,000 building permit mark for 1923 at 11:27 o'clock this morning, demonstrating very conclusively the fact that although the weather is threatening and the temperature somewhat cooler, nothing can put a "kink" in the building operations of this place. The exact amount of the permits to date is $7,003,161.

The permits for the entire of 1922 amounted to $6,305,971, or exactly $787,190 less than the permits issued thus far in 1923.

The permits issued during September thus far amount to $347,497, which is better than the amount issued to this date in September, 1922, which was one of the wonder months of last year.

POLICE AND FIREMEN NOMINATE OFFICERS

The nomination ballot for the election of officers of the Police and Firemen's Relief association of Glendale was held recently and resulted in the nomination for re-election of W. J. Rove, for president; R. E. Dodsworth for vice-president; Ed Fairfield for treasurer, and J. Simmons for secretary. The election will be held October 1, at a meeting to be held by the association.

ACCESSORIES STOLEN FROM GOERTZ CAR

A spare tire, rim and a safety lock were stolen from a car belonging to W. F. Goertz, 347 North Central avenue, between the hours of 8 and 10 Saturday night. The car was standing in front of the Goertz home at the time of the theft.

GLENDALIANS TO NUMBER OF 30 TO JOIN CARAVAN

Will Attend Realty Convention in the State Capital

About thirty Glendalians, made up of members of the Glendale Realty board and their wives will join the caravan of realty men who will leave Southern California on the morning of October 9 for Sacramento, where they will attend the convention of the California State Realty Board, which opens October 10, and continues three days.

The Southern California caravan will start from San Fernando at 7:30 o'clock on the morning of October 9, the Pasadena delegation setting the pace.

Among the Glendalians who will enjoy this trip are Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Twining, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Kirk, Mr. and Mrs. R. N. Striker, Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Thom, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Horn, Mr. and Mrs. George McDill, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Hansen, Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Guthrie, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Graham, Mr. and Mrs. J. I. Werneke, Dr. Jessie A. Russell, Mrs. Mable L. Tlight, Miss Winifred, office secretary of the Glendale Realty board, E. P. Hayward, secretary of the Glendale Realty board, Mrs. Gastill, Harley G. Preston and Harold J. Blackmore.

Real estate brokers of prominence from all parts of California are scheduled to appear on the program of this convention. These will include, also, President Lewis F. Eppich of the National Association of Real Estate Boards. Among the California real estate men scheduled to appear are Harry B. Allen, president of the San Francisco Real Estate board; J. V. Mendenhall, president of the California Approved Land Settlement association; Dr. Herman Janss, vice president of the California Real Estate association and a land developer of the San Joaquin valley. Ira E. High of Boise, expert on multiple listing; H. E. Nightingale of Los Angeles, Harry F. Barbour of Long Beach and many others.

Realty men from every part of the state will appear to defend the honors of their cities and tell in a five-minute period why they believe in their own home town. To the winning speaker will go the perpetual Fred E. Reed trophy, a handsome silver cup presented by Fred E. Reed of Oakland, winner of the annual five-minute home talk at the recent national convention of real estate men in Cleveland.

The cup was first won by Henry P. Barbour of Long Beach and last year was won for Fresno by J. C. Forkner. Competing for this year will be at least twenty aspirants for the honors.

According to word received by E. J. Morrissey, president of the Sacramento Realtors' association and general convention chairman, there is also keen interest in the annual C. C. Tuttle achievement contest for real estate board officers. A handsome trophy is also offered in this contest for the real estate board making the best showing during the past year.

JAPANESE ARE GENEROUS IN AID OF COUNTRYMEN

Mrs. H. E. Bartlett, 333 West Broadway, reports that $206.50 has been raised among the Japanese in Glendale and surrounding territory. Mrs. Bartlett, with Mrs. A. R. Findlay, accompanied Mr. Nakayama and Mrs. Goto, who are working hard to aid their suffering countrymen, on a trip to outlying truck gardens in the district about Burbank on Saturday. Previously they had made the rounds of the local fruit and flower vendors, soliciting contributions. They worked among the Japanese merchants on Thursday and Friday. Everywhere they met with generous assistance. Sometimes the Japanese made a contribution to various societies. The entire fund which they have raised now amounts to $2,326.82, according to Mrs. Bartlett.

EXPLAINING IT AWAY

It is most comical to read the way Saturday's fight is accounted for by those who were wrong in their predictions. One dopest who picked Firpo as a winner writes that he was wrong, but was so nearly right that he believes his judgment to be vindicated. Just what he means by this explanation is difficult to say. He admits that he did not pick the right man, but yet his judgment in choosing yourself. Those who say that there our inability to comprehend the meaning of his statement. There is just one way to be sure that you will not have to eat your words—and that is not to commit yourself. Those who say that their prediction have to swallow a lot of their own words. He who watches but says nothing has no explaining to do after the battle.

Events of Interest to Glendale and Its People

Mrs. C. F. Weaver is eagerly anticipating the arrival of her mother, Mrs. Wm. F. Wise, Wednesday, from Grand Rapids, Mich. Mr. and Mrs. Weaver, former residents of Montrose avenue, are now living in their new home at 365 Myrtle.

Miss Ethel Rowe of Elgin, Ill., spent the week-end with her cousin, Miss Nellie Rowe of 216 South Orange.

Miss Nellie Rowe, 216 South Orange, resigned her position with the Los Angeles library on Saturday in order to resume her studies at Redlands University next week. She will go over on Friday to register, and will take her same rooms at the dormitory for the coming term. Miss Rowe has been in charge of the Santa Monica boulevard branch of the library during the summer.

Mr. and Mrs. C. H. DuBois, father and mother of Mrs. A. M. Beamon, 203 North Maryland, have left California for a short visit in the east, accompanied by Mrs. Beamon's niece, Gertrude. Mr. and Mrs. DuBois will return to their home in Long Beach in two months.

Mrs. J. W. Arkenet of La Crescenta, with her daughter, Betty, is the house guest of Mrs. C. L. Marlenee, 301 South Central, this week.

Mrs. L. W. Bosserman, 614 South Central, had as her guests yesterday, Mr. W. Bernays and Miss Harrison, both from Los Angeles.

Miss Florence Heatherington has been the guest of Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Boyd, 326 North Jackson street. Miss Heatherington, who is Mr. Boyd's cousin, arrived recently from Burlington, Iowa.

Mrs. Elsie Williams of 139 South Adams, who left Glendale recently to visit a daughter in Cleveland, O., writes she is having a fine time but would like a little California atmosphere, that the weatherman there is predicting a great deal of rain. She finds living costs soaring—butter, eggs and potatoes being very high.

Miss Martha Dodson, an employee of the Newton Electric company, is spending a vacation in Ogden, Utah. She is expected home next week. Her fellow worker, Miss Hattie McDaniel, returned from her vacation this morning.

Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Croft and son Billy, of 1753 Gardena avenue, have returned from a combined business and pleasure trip to Owensmouth, Calabasas, Sausalito, and other points in that locality.

THREE LOS ANGELES MEN ARE INJURED

E. C. Herol, J. C. Edwin and Jose Valader of 820 California street, Los Angeles, were injured in an accident that occurred at 1:55 o'clock this morning at the corner of San Fernando and Colorado, when cars driven by Valader and Gordon Anspurger, 720 Ottawa street, Los Angeles, collided, according to the local police records. The injured men were taken to the Glendale sanitarium, where reports state that they are getting along nicely.

Island and Two Titles Costs But $10,000

CAGLIARI, Sardinia, Sept. 17.—Why marry a worthless prince when you can buy an island principally together with the title, and bestow them on a husband of your own choice? Is the argument an enterprising Sardinian realtor has used in trying to sell a Mediterranean island to an American woman.

The woman was not in the market for a title, either with or without a prince, but she promised to mention the alluring prospect to some of her friends, and thus extracted further information about the property from the enterprising real estate man. He withheld the name, but assured that the island is well located and is highly desirable both as a summer and winter residence. It has an old castle which is in need of repair, several hundred acres of vineyard and farmland badly in need of modernization, and two villages also, badly in need of repair with about 500 inhabitants.

The entire property is offered for $10,000, the princely name included, with a guarantee that the present holder of the title will legally sanction its transfer.

DR. GILKERSON PARTS WITH HIS FOOTHILL TRACT

H. L. Finlay of Finlay & Preston, reports a $40,000 deal put through by his firm last week when ten acres near Brand's castle on Mountain street, owned by Dr. Gilkerson, were sold to a group of Los Angeles and Eagle Rock men who intend to immediately subdivide and place the tract on the market as large, high-class residence lots with high building restrictions in line with the requirements of the Bellehurst and Rosemeade tracts now being improved with boulevards. It is figured that Glendale has only this limited amount of gently sloping foothill land commanding a view of the San Fernando valley and with a beautiful mountain background, and that it is bound to find a ready market at high prices. The acreage will be divided into about 42 large lots.

Among new arrivals in Glendale who made the cross continental trip by auto are Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Jackson and Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Jackson from Danville, Ill., who got here last Friday. Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Jackson are son-in-law and daughter of Mr. Armstrong, agent of the Singer Sewing Machine, and they plan to remain permanently. Mr. Jackson is a building contractor. The R. S. Jacksons will spend the winter here.

Realtor Harley G. Preston, who is spending a vacation in San Francisco, writes that he will have to come south to get warm; that San Franciscans are freezing to death.

Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Stuart of North Brand leave the latter part of the week for a two weeks' vacation at Big Bear Lake.

Dr. and Mrs. J. D. Camerer, 319 West Garfield avenue, with Dr. and Mrs. David Rae, motored over to Los Angeles Friday night to see the "Wayfarer" pageant. They also attended the performance last Tuesday, but were rained out. All were much impressed with the grandeur and beauty of the various scenes, and were more than glad that they returned for the performance on Friday.

Miss Virginia Campbell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Campbell, left last night for Redlands, where she will enter the university. Miss Campbell will live at Harwood court again this term.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Clark, 114 East Park avenue, who recently came to Glendale from Pittsburg, had the unexpected pleasure of welcoming Mr. Clark's father, Mr. Schaeffer, who arrived from Pittsburg the latter part of last week. Mr. Schaeffer will make a short visit in Glendale, and in the future may make his home here.

Mrs. J. P. Clark, 606 North Orange street, was hostess yesterday to a group of friends from Long Beach, among them Mr. and Mrs. William Robbins, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Reed, and Mr. Dudley Forten. They had an enjoyable afternoon and evening, leaving at a late hour.

ALBERTA METZLER OPENS CLASS HERE

Alberta Metzler, former pupil of Olga Steeb, is the latest acquisition to the Glendale musical colony. She is opening classes in piano this month at her studio, 602 North Orange street. Aside from her later training and experience, she holds a diploma in piano and theory from U. S. C., where the music department ranks as one of the strongest in the state. Miss Metzler has had considerable experience teaching in the high school at Paris, California. She has recently been taken into the Mu Phi Epsilon, the largest national musical fraternity, which Schumann Heink and other great musicians hold membership.

Miss Metzler has a state certificate in piano, harmony, history and appreciation. All her pupils will be fully accredited in high school towards any university they wish to take up. In addition to her teaching work Miss Metzler has been prominent in many cities through her appearance on club programs. Her playing reveals sound musicianship and artistic understanding. She is a welcome addition to the group of Glendale artists.

LA CRESCENTA NOTES

Coincident with the opening of school here is the resumption of Parent-Teacher association activities. The first meeting of the year will be held next Thursday afternoon at the school auditorium. Mrs. C. W. Angier, president, will preside over the meeting.

The La Crescenta Community church is making a drive for chairs for their new church on Montrose avenue, now nearing completion. The cost of each chair will be $2.50. Any amount will be acceptable and can be sent to Simon Bickel, treasurer, or Rev. A. H. Kelso, pastor of the church.

The local schools are open this morning for registration and from all appearances, there will be a record attendance this year. The unfinished condition of the La Crescenta and Montrose school buildings and increased attendance will necessitate half-day sessions for a short time.

Mrs. Jasper Sipes of Oklahoma City is the guest of her sister, Mrs. Horace Carpenter of 136 East Mayfield avenue.

Mrs. C. W. Johnson of South Los Angeles avenue is the guest of friends at Long Beach for a week.

Mr. and Mrs. M. S. Collins and son, Stuart, of East Prospect avenue returned last Thursday from a week's stay at Arrowhead. Mr. and Mrs. Collins were hosts at a fish dinner to a group of friends on the evening of their return. Their guests were Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Persons, Mr. and Mrs. George Carson and L. Lillingham.

BETTER STORIES FOR LADS WANTED BY PUBLISHERS

Is there a modern and acceptable substitute for the "Deadwood Dick" tales, the "Injun" stories, the blood-and-thunder paper-backs of a generation ago that will be acceptable to both grown-up censors and boy readers? Can the writers of best sellers, backed by modern science and invention, turn out tales that the modern boy will grab and read as eagerly as his grandfathers read the lurid but abodeed books and booklets of his day?

These are the leading questions to which the executive committee in charge of the publications issued by the Boy Scouts of America propose finding a direct answer. This inquiry has been made possible as a result of a $100,000 gift received from an anonymous source. This fund is to be used initially in developing a wider range of contributions to Boys' Life, the monthly magazine published by the Boy Scouts of America for all boys.

This $100,000 contribution represents a protest against the idea entertained in many quarters that innocuous potboilers are the sort of articles that boys should read. The fund will be used in placing at the disposal of the boy reader a portion of the talent now almost exclusively employed in writing for magazines that are supposedly gotten out for mature readers.

"The announcement at the annual meeting of the executive committee in charge of Boy Scout publications of a $100,000 gift, to be used in developing the sort of writing output boys need and should have, marks a new epoch in the Boy Scout movement," says James E. West, chief scout executive.

"Everybody who is in any way acquainted with the normal boy knows that he spends considerable time in reading. In the past much of this reading has been done away from home, or it has been done at home secretly. The principle reason for the secrecy has been the fact that the sort of thing that the boy wanted to read was not available or acceptable at home. So the boy began the collection of his own secret private library. The general proposition on the basis of which we are working is that the boy is naturally a constructor—a builder. Moreover, modern science opens up vistas down which a clever writer can travel with the boy reader, encountering thrills enough to satisfy the most exacting juvenile audience.

"The time has gone by when writing for boys can be hack writing. The modern boy spots things worth while instinctively. You cannot fool him about 'Treasure Island,' for example. He knows it is a good book. A perfectly obvious step in connection with the development of 'Boys' Life' is to secure for it writing talent in every way equal to the talent that serves magazines designed primarily for grown-ups. We have already arranged with Arthur B. Reeve for a series of Craig Kennedy stories. 'The Radio Detective' is to be the title. For this series modern science will supply the facts, while Reeve and the boys will supply the thrills.

"The expenditure of the $100,000 fund at our disposal will, as far as a portion of the general public is concerned, represent an experiment. We do not regard it as such. We prefer the view that the expenditure of this fund represents an opportunity—an opportunity to recognize the fact that boys' tastes in reading are basically sound, that the subjects that interest them in one generation may not interest them in the next, and that it is obligatory upon those who would be leaders among boys to evolve a writing output that will be safe from the standpoint of the grown-up and interesting—intensely interesting—from the standpoint of the boy himself. Writing for boys is an occupation that properly challenges the genius of the entire writing fraternity."

Pacific Shipping Increased by 100 Percent in 10 Years

HONOLULU, Sept. 17.—The growth of commerce and shipping on the Pacific in the past ten years is shown by the fact that the tonnage of ships arriving here increased in the fiscal year 1933, by more than 100 per cent over the total of 1913, according to the annual report of the harbor master.

The total tonnage for 1913 was 2,724,424, and the aggregate for 1933 was 5,292,275, an advance of 3,567,851 in the decade. The number of ships also was much larger, 478 entering in 1913, and 716 making this port in 1933.

The harbor master's report recommended that better and larger facilities be provided here for handling the vessels, in view of the increase and in anticipation of a further growth.

GRAIN EXPORTS ARE CUT IN HALF
[By Associated Press]

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—Grain exports from the United States last week totaled 3,393,444 bushels as compared with 6,298,000 for the week previous.

PEERLESS LEADER HAS SAME OLD FIRE

Humor, Sarcasm and Brilliant Epigrams Mark Lecture

The large audience which gathered Saturday evening in the auditorium of the Tuesday Afternoon club to hear the man regarded by many persons as the most distinguished speaker in this country, William Jennings Bryan, was not disappointed. His pleasure was manifested in spontaneous applause which left no doubt of its appreciation of the points by which Mr. Bryan endeavored to prove his argument in defense of the Bible's declaration of creation versus evolution.

Beginning in a simple, conversational style, he marshalled all the factors in the problem and then warmed into oratory in which humor and sarcasm played no small part.

As his theme developed more than one listener must have inwardly wondered how this gifted and most unusual man failed to secure the presidency.

He was introduced by his personal friend, Dr. Henry Rasmus, pastor of the First Methodist church of this city, who paid his personal tribute to the Christian character and moral courage of the man he was presenting.

While awaiting Mr. Bryan's arrival, music of a very entertaining sort was provided by four young men introduced as "The Saxophone Quartette." Their voices blend beautifully and in addition to their instrumental numbers, they sang in quartette or solo: "Little Tommy Went A'Fishing," the negro spiritual, "Until the War is Ended," "Still, Still With Thee," "Rocked in the Cradle of the Deep," "My Jesus, I Love Thee," and "Crossing the Bar."

Mr. Bryan referred to Japan and to the impressions he gained while touring that country, saying, "Whether Japan realizes her ambitions and she is very ambitious, depends altogether upon on thing, whether she accepts the Christian religion and Christian ideals."

"My subject," said he, "Science vs. Religion, or Did God Make Man in His Own Image," is a defense of the Bible. I think it the greatest subject I have ever discussed. Tonight I want to present to you the greatest issue in the world, transcending anything in politics."

He spoke of the period in which he has lived as the greatest in the history of this country, particularly the last 25 years in which four amendments to the constitution of the United States have been adopted, and he showed how each of these has paved the way for a great advance, especially in the case of the suffrage amendment, because of the influence of the woman vote on the prohibition amendment.

Said he: "From this time on there will not be a great issue before this country that will not be colored by women's influence. The next great reform is the social evil. The next great movement will be to establish a single standard of morals."

Coming at last to his subject, he said: "Is the Bible true or false? If false, it is the greatest imposition the world ever saw. 'The Bible gives us our only conception of God. It is our only standard, the only guide we can put into the hands of our children and say, 'Trust it and you will make no mistake.' If the Bible goes, we have no standard. If the Bible goes there is no Christ. When dethroned and discarded, Christ becomes not merely a man, but a man who pretended to be the son of God."

"I believe the Bible has done more for civilization than all the other books that have been written. If we had to choose between the Bible all by itself and all the other books in the world without the Bible, it would be better to let all the other books go and build the world anew than to let the Bible go."

"There are three verses in the Bible in one book that mean more to man than all the books that man has ever written, and we have all the rest of the Bible besides. The first verse of the first chapter of Genesis is the only sentence that gives the origin of all things. 'In the beginning, God.' I would rather begin with God and reason down than to begin with a piece of dirt and reason up."

"Verse 23 in the same chapter states the greatest scientific fact ever known. Moses announces God's law that regulates the continuity of life on this earth. That one statement of scientific fact has more science in it than all the books that scientists ever wrote. It is not only a law but the only law. The scientists have not been able to prove that life ever reproduced except according to kind. The only thing that has ever menaced religion is man's guess against God's law."

"The third of the verses is No. 24 which gives the only explanation of man's presence on earth. After God made all other things, he made man in his own image and placed him here. When man learns that he is a child of the king and that the earth is his royal inheritance, he finds himself. It is his highest pleasure to try to find out what he is placed here for. There is no explanation of his presence here except in the Bible."

"Truth is self evident and truth needs only to be stated to be understood. If we are going to have science versus the Bible we must know what science is. Science is classified knowledge. Nothing can be science that is not true. Nothing that is not true can be science."

LEGION NEWS

For God and Country, we associate ourselves together for the following purposes: To uphold and defend the Constitution of the United States of America; to maintain law and order; to foster and perpetuate a one hundred percent Americanism; to preserve the memories and incidents of our association in the Great War; to inculcate a sense of individual obligation to the community, state and nation; to combat the autocracy of both the classes and the masses; to make right the master of might; to promote peace and good will on earth; to safeguard and transmit posterity the principles of Justice, freedom and democracy; to consecrate and sanctify our comradeship by our devotion to mutual helpfulness. Preamble to the Constitution of the American Legion.

Acting upon the advice of National Headquarters, California Department of the American Legion has attempted to raise among its members a fund to be turned over to the local Red Cross for the relief of stricken soldiers. This sum would be equivalent to ten cents per member of the Legion and would amount to around $3,000.00.

In line with the recent resolution passed by the Department of California Convention of the American Legion authorizing the raising of $150,000 as an endowment fund, the income from which would be used to endow a chair in Americanism at the University of California, Dr. Campbell, president of the university, has written a letter to the Legion thanking them for their action and heartily endorsing the stand of the Legion as well as welcoming the support of the American Legion for higher ideals of citizenship. This program of the Legion's is probably the most ambitious program undertaken in the State of California and bespeaks well for California's progressiveness.

Senator Shortridge of California will introduce at the next session of Congress a bill embodying the salient points of the recent resolution of the State Convention of the American Legion. If passed, this would require all aliens over 18 years of age now in the United States to register each year and to pay a fee. The returns from such fees would be used in the schooling of adults along citizenship. Post of the Legion in California will seek the passage of a similar resolution by the National Convention to be held at San Francisco, October 15 to 19, inclusive.

Eastern, or "tenderfoot," members of the American Legion are to be given a touch of the days when the west was "wild and woolly" by former comrades at Reno, Nev., while enroute to the national convention of the Legion to be held in San Francisco October 15 to 19.

Arrangements have been made by Darrell Dunkle post of the American Legion at Reno whereby delegations traveling to the convention over the Southern Pacific will stop over at the Nevada city for a few hours for the "wild west" entertainment.

The program at Reno will be staged on October 12, 13 and 14 and will be in the nature of a typical western round-up and "Forty-nine camp."

Special trains bearing eastern delegations will be "captured" at the Southern Pacific station by citizens of Reno and will be taken in automobiles to the round-up and camp. Those in charge are expected a number of distinguished guests, including General J. J. Pershing, Secretary of War Weeks, Secretary of Navy Denby, and several generals of the allied armies during the war.

"From six to eight thousand ex-service men are expected to stop over in Reno during the three-day celebration previous to our national convention to be held in San Francisco October 15 to 19," it was stated by J. G. Allard, chairman of the transportation committee of the Reno post.

ing that is not true can be called scientific. The scientist must not give his guess the sanctity of truth unless it is proved to be true. With a million species they have never found one they could trace to another and yet they guess that all had a common origin.

"Evolution is a hypothesis, a guess, which links every living thing with every other living thing and if we are kin to one living thing, we are kin to all living things. You cannot pick out your animals."

Mr. Bryan endeavored in a variety of ways to show the absurdity of the reasoning of scientists as to the propelling cause or stimulus which would inspire evolution and insisted that it was all pure unsubstantiated "guess." His protest was against having it taught as truth rather than theory and its employment to cast doubt upon the Bible in the minds of young people. He declared it is infecting not only the secular colleges but the theological seminaries and that a determined stand should be made against it until there is some proof to sustain it.

WASHINGTON'S TRAVEL IN ACTION

The trowel used by General Washington, when he laid the cornerstone of the capitol of the United States at Washington, D. C., on Sept. 18, 1795, is to be used when the cornerstone of the imposing George Washington Masonic National Memorial is laid at Alexandria, Va., on November 1, next. This trowel is now the property of Alexandria-Washington Lodge No. 22, A. F. and A. M., of Alexandria, Va., just outside the capital city.

DAIRY CONGRESS TO HEAR NOTED FOREIGNERS

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—Many government officials as well as world experts in dairying subjects are among the speakers who are to address the World's Dairy Congress which opens in Washington, October 2. President Coolidge has been invited to welcome the delegates.

The program includes about 200 addresses, to be delivered during the sessions of the congress. Those whose names appear as speakers include J. Maenhaut of Belgium, president of the International Dairy federation; Secretary of Commerce Hoover, Secretary of Agriculture Wallace, H. E. Van Norman, president of the World's Dairy Congress association; former Governor Frank L. Lowden of Illinois, who is president of the Holstein-Friesian association of America; Charles Porcher, editor of "Le Lait," Lyon, France; L. G. Michaels, representing the International Institute of Agriculture, Rome, Italy; J. A. Ruddick, dairy and cold storage commissioner of the Canadian department of agriculture; and J. D. Miller, president of the National Federation of Milk Producers, and vice-president of the Dairyman's league of New York.

After spending two days here, delegates to the congress will hold a session in Philadelphia, October 4, as the guests of the National Dairy council, and then will meet October 5 to 10, in Rochester, N. Y., in cooperation with the Seventeenth Annual National Dairy Exposition. Every question relating to dairying whether of production, manufacture, distribution, equipment, or nutrition, will be widely discussed. Among the countries to be represented are the United States, Canada, England, Ireland, Scotland, Switzerland, Italy, Holland, Austria, Denmark, Norway and Japan.

"TRUE MESSIAH" IS THEME OF REV. KRINGEL

Rev. Henry O. Kringle selected the theme, "The True Messiah," for the sermon at the services of the Concordia Lutheran congregation. The passages were Matthew 11, 2-10.

The speaker said in part: "Art Thou He that should come, or do we look for another?" That is the question which John the Baptist has two of his disciples ask of Christ. The purport of this question was to ascertain whether Jesus was the promised Messiah. It is certain that John asked Christ for the sake of his disciples. His disciples did not seem to like it that all men went to Jesus. They had heard John bearing witness of Jesus, but as yet did not have the confidence in Jesus which they should have had.

To this day there are people who either do not believe in Christ Jesus as the promised Messiah, or doubt whether Christ is He that should come. The first class, who openly reject Christ, are the infidels. The unbelievers discredit the clearest Bible statements concerning Christ. The second class, those who doubt whether Jesus Christ is the promised Messiah, are such, who are not certain in their faith concerning Him. They do not openly reject Christ as do the infidels. They hear the Gospel like the disciples of John the Baptist. But they are as the reed shaken with the wind. When any supposed arguments and proofs against the Gospel are placed before them, their faith is shocked, and they begin to doubt.

Scripture assures us that Jesus Christ is truly the Messiah who should come, first because His person exactly answers to the description of the promised Messiah and also because His deeds exactly correspond to the deeds of the Messiah.

What was Jesus' answer when John's disciples had asked Him: "Art Thou He that should come, or do we look for another?" Christ silently admits that He is the promised Messiah and says to these two men: "Go and show John again those things which ye do hear and see."

I say, that Jesus Christ is truly the Messiah, because in the Old Testament God has given a full description of the Messiah's person, and so perfectly does that description correspond with Jesus' person that nobody can look for another. If he silently accepts and believes the clear words of Scripture. In the Old Testament God stated the time when the Messiah should come, the place where He should be born, and the family and people from whom He was to descend. And who is it that answers to this description in every detail? Nobody in this world excepting Jesus Christ. St. Paul says of him: This is a faithful saying and worthy of all acceptance, that Christ Jesus came into the world to save sinners.

EQUALIZE LOAD ON CHASSIS

To distribute loads evenly on an automobile, the driver of the car should assign seats to the passengers. Baggage should not be placed on one side of the running board when there is nothing on the other. An unbalanced car makes it difficult to drive, particularly on soft or wet roads, and is hard on springs.

Society LODGES - CLUBS - CHURCHES

MILFORD CARD CLUB TO RESUME SESSIONS

The Milford Street Card club will resume its enjoyable afternoon sessions the latter part of the month. The first meeting will take place at the home of Mrs. H. V. Brummel, 415 West Wilson avenue. This social organization of 12 members has been meeting together for ten years. Although it started out as a group of Milford street residents, home changes have taken many of the members away from Milford street, but they continue to attend the club card parties in the fall and winter months.

CANADIAN CLUB DANCE THURSDAY EVE

The Glendale Canadian club dance is announced for Thursday evening, Sept. 20, at 8 o'clock at the K. P. hall, Park and Brand. All members and their friends are invited to the frolic. Kelly's orchestra will furnish syncopated harmony for the dancers, and a highly entertaining surprise program has been arranged by the following committee: H. G. Hemphill, Frank Mathews, and H. W. Groutage.

English Inventor Predicts Faster Submerged Boat

Than Possible Above Water
Commander Charles Burney, who is noted for many wartime inventions, has now come forth with a prediction of a submarine that will travel faster under water than on the surface. In the same speech, recently made before the House of Commons, he also predicted an airship that will not carry guns, but airplanes.

L. A. COUNTY IS HEALTHY, SAYS POMEROY

Dr. J. L. Pomeroy, county health officer, in his report for the week ending September 8, shows the county to be in a fine healthy condition except in the matter of rabies, which has caused one death in the county hospital during the week.

Prince George and Daughter of Mary Letter Engaged, Is Persistent London Rumor

Well-informed circles in the British capital are discussing the pending engagement of Prince George, youngest son of the King and Queen, to Lady Alexandra Curzon, youngest daughter of Foreign Secretary Curzon by his first wife, who was Miss Mary Leiter of Washington. Lady Alexandra is nineteen and the Prince will be twenty-one on December 20. The betrothal will be announced, it is said, on the Prince's twenty-first birthday. London hears that about six months will elapse between the engagement and the marriage. The wedding would mean the first distinct American blood-relationship with British royalty.

ARTS AND CRAFTS TO HAVE CARD PARTY

Section A of the Arts and Crafts division of the Tuesday Afternoon Club will have a card party tomorrow afternoon at 2:30, in the clubhouse. The home economics department has run a series of these enjoyable affairs all summer and this is a continuation of the pleasurable afternoon parties. The Arts and Crafts division will be in charge on tomorrow only. Five hundred and bridge will be in order during the afternoon, and everyone is invited to attend and join in the games.

Seven cases of rabies in dogs are reported this week occurring in the southern and western parts of the county, with another human death in the Los Angeles General hospital this week from rabies, the seriousness of this problem can not be overlooked. Poliomyelitis appears again this week.

DR. H. C. FUNK IS HIGHLY HONORED AT SAN FRANCISCO

Dr. H. C. Funk, pastor of the First Lutheran church of Glendale, has just returned from the convention of the Lutheran Synod of California, held at San Francisco. Dr. Funk was elected president of the southern conference, comprising the territory of Southern California and Arizona. He is also chairman of the home mission committee for the conference, and a member of the executive board for the synod.

The Glendale congregation is making splendid progress in the development of the new church home on Kenwood street, near Colorado. The foundation work for the new building and parsonage will soon be completed. Work is being pushed on the church annex in order that the opening service for the new location may be held Sunday, September 30.

INTERESTING FACTS ABOUT RUTH ROLAND

William MacMullin confides a fact that will be of great interest to movie fans and the many friends of Ruth Roland and Helen Delaine, who have been touring the Canadian northwest on the Orpheum circuit. They are appearing in San Francisco this week and will be in Los Angeles next week. Miss Roland receives $12,000 per month, Mr. MacMullin says, for appearing in person when her films are shown. She not only is introduced from the stage but circulates in the audience to show she is not the wild creature she appears to be in the adventures in which she is depicted in pictures.

You do not have to remove fly wheel to take out the clutch on the Chevrolet. You drop the front transmission supports, compress the clutch spring, take out the spring that holds it and release the clutch spring slowly. You have to be careful, or it will fly off.

KEITH L. BROOKS COMMENTS ON PAUL'S ARREST

The usual good crowd heard Keith L. Brooks at the city council chamber Sunday morning at 9:30 when he gave the weekly Bible lesson to the Presbyterian Brotherhood class. Mr. Brooks reviewed the story of the Apostle Paul's arrest and his hearing before the Jewish Sanhedrin at Jerusalem.

Almost twenty-five years had elapsed since Paul as a member of the Sanhedrin had endorsed the council's prosecution of Stephen. Paul now stood in the very spot where Stephen had stood and also where Christ had stood when Caiaphas pronounced Him worthy of death.

Paul began his defense by stating that he had lived in all good conscience before God. Immediately the high priest commanded those near Paul to smite him on the mouth. They looked on him as an apostate from the religion of his fathers and could not tolerate the assertion of his innocence. Then Paul broke forth with the words, "God shall smite thee, thou whited wall, for sitheth thou to judge men after the law and commandment me to be smitten contrary to the law?"

So far as the high priest was concerned the language was fitting and richly deserved. I do not blame Paul for spilling over. I would have done worse myself. Sitting there in his white robe as God's representative he was little more than mud-daubed with whitewash. A decorated hypocrite was a choice name for him. So far as Paul was concerned, however, the passion with which his remarks were accompanied was out of place. Evidently Paul had a lively temper, as seen already in his dispute with Barnabas. Many great and good commentators try to screen Paul from the sight of those who would find fault in him. They need not do so for my benefit. I do not think for a minute that Paul was perfect. This was one of those things that shows Paul was still a man and not the equal of his divine Master. No man in the Bible is. Dr. Meyer says: "The best of men are but men at best." Don't go to worshipping Paul or you will be disappointed. Even the excellence of Paul comes short of the behavior of Christ, who when He suffered but threatened not and when He was reviled, reviled not again.

It is true that Christ once called the Pharisees whited sepulchers. Some use this incident to justify the use of abusive language against religious teachers who do not agree with them. Christ can stand as the judge of men, for He knows the intent of their hearts, but it is our duty to take His precept: "Whosoever shall smite thee on thy right cheek turn to him the other also." The Christian is to be prepared after one indignity to meekly submit to another if necessary. Paul himself afterward wrote: "Avenge not yourselves but rather give place unto wrath, for it is written, 'Vengeance is mine; I will repay, saith the Lord.'"

Those that stood by rebuked Paul for reviling the high priest. Then Paul apologized, acknowledging that the scripture said: "Thou shalt not speak evil of the ruler of thy people." The Christian of all men is supposed to be courteous. A man is a truly great man who can humbly apologize to one who did him a great wrong. That is Christianity. The lesson of the incident is our duty toward the properly constituted rulers, corrupt as they may be. Paul later wrote in Romans 13: "Let every soul be subject to the higher powers. The powers that be are ordained of God. Whosoever resisteth the power resisteth the ordinance of God."

Paul's next move was to play upon the party spirit of the Pharisees and Sadducees who were in the Sanhedrin. He said: "For the hope of the resurrection of the dead I am called in question." He knew that the Sadducees denied the doctrine of the resurrection, but the Pharisees believed in a resurrection of Jesus which Paul preached. It was like throwing a bone to a pack of dogs and was sure to start a fight. In the fracas which followed Paul nearly lost his life. There is a little question again of the wisdom of his policy. Such a rumpus was stirred up that the

"OUR SPIRITUAL MOUNTAIN TOPS" SERMON THEME

Rev. W. E. Edmonds, resuming his work after his vacation, was greeted by a very full congregation Sunday morning at the Presbyterian church. He preached upon the "Spiritual Mountain Tops," from words in Solomon's Song, 4:8, "Come with me from Lebanon, my spouse—look from the top of Amana, from the top of Shenir and Mermen." An outline follows: One cannot come to the Song of Solomon except with the most high and pure spirit; it is the holy of holies. Here is the love of God for His church, under the symbol of the most ideal marriage relation.

God sees here the figure of the mountains to express His call to us to the heights. You have been thrilled this vacation by the heights. Have you been to the spiritual heights? Searching scriptures you find some of the greatest subjects are mountain experiences. Abraham of Moriah, Moses of Sinai and then on Nebo, Elijah on Carmel, Christ on Golgotha, then ascending into glory from Olivet, and some day upon Olivet He shall come down again.

It is a great day in the life of the believer when you get realization of great truths whereon you stand—when you see. So much we live a busy life, like a dim eclipse, with no clear conception. The greatest thing is that you shall see Jesus, and see Him clearly. We hear too much about "improvements." No, don't talk of such things in the life of the believer. It should not be "a man trying to get to heaven," but a man living in heaven, walking upon the earth, upon the mountain peaks. Is your experience like an elevator, going up and down? Come with God up to the heavens and stay there, living in heaven and walking on the earth.

Take notice: When God says, "Come with me from Lebanon," it is an invitation to some new experience, to something beyond. "Look from the top of Amana"—God is calling us to come and look from the top. There is so much passing as truth these days that is not—come up high into the presence of God and see His truths without smoked glass.

We are called to look from the top of Shenir, which means light and privilege. It means something to be of the church. Have you measured up? This now is the mountain of privilege. "Upon this mountain I will come down and dwell in my people's hearts"—are you willing that He shall come in and dwell?

reserves had to be called out. Pharisee and Sadducee could always get along together when it came to fighting Christians, but the minute the disputed question of the resurrection was raised the Pharisees and Sadducees were at once at odds. Paul's protectors and the possession of his person became the object of struggle. Paul had not figured on this. With Pharisees holding his feet and Sadducees tugging at his arms he was probably a wiser and a taller man when they got through pulling on him. Paul was taken in charge by the Roman officers and conveyed by night to Caesarea.

To Catch Helgramites

A minnow sein, a garden hoe and three men or a man and two boys is the secret of catching helgramites for bass fishing. Find a shallow river riffle and plant the sein in the current, where it is any place from four to eight inches deep. One at each "brail" to hold it well slanted against the current and the third party to stir the gravel and heavy boulders well with the hoe above the sein for a distance of eight feet so that the silt will be washed into the sein. Every few minutes lift the sein and the helgramites will be found clinging there. They harbor under the gravel and boulders and drift down on the current when dislodged.—Sportsman's Digest.

Truths in Epigram

THE SPIRIT IS WILLING

Over the Balkan regions streams light from the torch of hatred; a malevolent, baleful light. Perhaps there is small danger that it shall set the flame of war, for though the spirit of carnage is anxious to be loosed, it is held in bounds by conditions. To conduct a war requires abundant money. The peoples now engaged in hostile gestures have no money. Well for the world that they have not. They would not make proper use of it. If they decline to follow the ways of industry and to permit seedtime and harvest to succeed each other in normal fashion, they do not deserve money. The United States was sorry for Europeans when by the folly of a few a great conflict had been launched, involving them all. Sympathy ceased, or at least changed in character, when the chastened nations emerged with hatreds accentuated or extended in new directions. They seem now to want to fight, or such attitude on the part of leaders is indicated by diplomatic conduct. The men who have been on the firing line once, have had enough of it. To order them into the trenches again might mean revolution, and a social alignment more radical than ever dreamed of in the council chamber at Versailles.

There had been hope that nations would be changed by the dark experience of war; changed for the better, rendered less selfish. This hope has vanished. War is stayed by lack of means, and not through any spiritual refinement. Italy, still with military strength to make arbitrary demands, does not hesitate to make them. Its activity would mean war, save that the oppressed are unable to make adequate defense, and are conscious of the weakness. France, highly esteemed in America, and continuing to be friendly to this country, asserts at the point of the bayonet, the rights she claims. Germany in a very fury of humiliation and rage, is restrained only by lack of strength. Russia is ready to promote any discord that might tend to the overthrow of orderly government.

By contrast, the western continent is seen to be notably blessed. It has its troubles and its serious problems, but it retains its sanity. No scheme of conquest thrills it. It faces no situation that impels it to resort to arms. It is firmly devoted to the cause of peace and steady in adherence to justice. North and South America together, wrought into a sort of unity by their common interests, form a powerful equation in the structure of civilization. If any suasion, by moral force appealing to reason, they may influence Europe to seek an economic level, and cultivate a mental state at which human relationships may be sustained honorably and decently, doubtless they will be glad to do so. If Europe has become a maddened monster, blindly bent on self-destruction, deaf to counsel, heedless of kindly approach, its struggle will be a ghastly spectacle, with observers horrified but unable to intervene.

DOING REAL THINGS

Although there is much work to be done in this world, not every one is so conditioned that he is required to toil with his hands. His ability may lie in some wholly different direction. He may be called upon to direct human thought. Out of his dreams may come vast results that take material form only through the touch of skilled artisans. He may be an instructor, an investigator, or it may fall to him to make record of passing events. Such men do not evade manual toil, through sloth, or through distaste for effort. Indeed, many of them work harder, and for longer hours than the ones who lay aside their tools at the sound of the whistle. The scientist, the philosopher, the master of letters, do not know regular periods of rest.

Perhaps there is an idea that men whose business does not require the wearing of overalls, are inclined to look down upon labor. If so the notion is erroneous. There are idlers, rich and poor, who affect to look down upon all engaged in toil. The pose is absurd; the useless poseur is a ridiculous figure. The real men of the world, whatever happen to be their station, not only admire the class engaged in doing the real, the tangible, but regard its members with a feeling akin to envy. To build a towering structure of steel and cement; to blast a tunnel through a granite mountain; to bring out of the earth its riches, either by tilling the soil or finding its oil and gold; to erect an engine, or to drive it along the rails; to lay a wall, or join two pieces of timber in shaping a house, all these are definite accomplishments. All of them were beyond an Emerson or a Poe.

The man who has to deal with ideas not linked with positive achievement, yet perhaps conducive to achievement on the part of others, useful as he may be, must sometimes be inclined to regard himself as a failure. He may stand on the sidelines and applaud while the game goes on, but somehow he estimates himself as alien to real progress. It is this that makes him regard the calloused hand of the laborer as the sign of an honor in which he may not fully share.

IN A MATCHLESS LAND

Early in October a special train will leave New York for Los Angeles. That the passengers are coming to celebrate the opening of a great hotel, is a mere incident. However, it is an indication of the growth of southern California, and thus of interest in itself. The train will move through Canada to the Pacific coast, and then drop down from Portland through San Francisco. On the return trip it is scheduled to pass through the Grand Canyon, and cross Colorado at the edge of the Rockies.

The passengers on this train will view scenery as magnificent as the world affords. They will look out upon glorious peaks about the crests of which snow is a perpetual crown. They will cross mighty chasms and skirt the edge of precipices, looking down upon rivers flowing through eternal shadowy depths to the sea. They will behold giant trees that for thousands of years have stood as nations were being formed, and civilizations coming into being or sinking into decay. They will see the stupendous scars wrought by the implacable glaciers of long ago. All about them will be mute evidence of the upheaval of which was born the august height reaching into the clouds. Truly a trip to inspire awe, to broaden the mind, to awaken the souls of men.

In no other country would a similar experience be possible. In its various charms this is a matchless land. It presents, as in the Grand Canyon, the absolutely unique. The experience the traveler receives in crossing and recrossing it could not be approximated elsewhere in the world. Little wonder that the tide of travel sets to the far west. This marvelous trip does not require special trains; there are many trains every day. Most of the distance may be accomplished by automobile if desired.

THE CURIOUS THROING

Japan has recognized the propriety of shutting out tourists for the present. Ordinarily such visitors are welcome enough. It is not strange that their entrance at this time should be regarded as an impertinent intrusion. Curiosity is a natural phase of human mentality. Often it is useful, leading to investigation, and thus to improvement in methods. The scientist and inventor are impelled by curiosity; they believe they may discover and devise things worth while. But for this trait the patent office would be superfluous. But there is a different type of curiosity, wholly morbid and worse than futile.

Those who desire to see the fresh scars of a stricken people, not that they hope to do anything to alleviate suffering, but because they want to gloat, are on a wholly different plane. They flock to a hanging, or beg tickets of admission. They crowd the morgue after a gruesome tragedy. They may be seen in the court room where they expect the horrid is to be detailed. They seem to delight in the opportunity to shudder. They are vicious appetites, craving unnatural satisfaction.

There is a dearth of necessities in Japan now. There is lack of accommodations. Yet if they had their own way, the morbid mob would overrun the scenes of desolation. Japan did properly in slamming the door.

Spain seems to be in the somewhat familiar "throes of revolution." That country had been fortunate in keeping out of the European fighting zone. Now local patriotism appears to have set up this sort of a zone at home. There had been trouble with Morocco. The sentiment of the Spanish failed to lend approval. The sentiment of the army was against the methods employed. It is not possible to stage even a small war lest the contagion spread.

THE SUPERIORITY COMPLEX

By ESTELLE LAWTON LINDSEY

Laughing at people who make themselves ridiculous may start them toward consideration of a cure. Let's emphasize the "may" and we will not expect too much or anticipate a too quick recovery. I use "recovery" advisedly, for the superiority complex is a kind of mental disease and handicaps its victims like any other malady.

Also it is most prevalent among the educated ignorant, to which class belong many college girls and not a few people who have been the victims of private instruction at the hands of tutors and special teachers.

Were I preparing a child to fail in life I can conceive no better groundwork to give it than private instruction, not the private instruction that follows ordinary school education and supplements it, but private instruction given because the child was "too good to associate with the rabble."

After all it's the "rabble" carries on the activities of life if by rabble one means those who are unable to pay for private instruction and must absorb education as a by-product of work.

These thoughts followed in the wake of a bit of reading with the college girl as subject; the article was inspired by the fact that, increasingly, substantial business firms are shying away from the college girl. The superiority complex is too acute to make her effective and it tends, so experience proves, to make her an inharmonious element in a business organization.

This is bad; it is also a reflection on the psychology inspired by college activities. If college girls come home believing that life holds nothing more for them to learn one night, without being radical, hysteric before deciding to send a girl to college.

Many heads of departments in mercantile establishments, numerous bank officials and manufacturers have been interviewed on the subject of the college girl and one and all have declared that her mental attitude is such that it acts as a business handicap that overbalances such advantages as her college training may have given her. And that attitude is simply that, because she has learned what the colleges have to teach, she stands under no obligations to respect or attempt to learn what business life has to offer. Yet it is for service in business that she expects to be paid; it is through service in business that she must advance. The interviews which I read all stated that the college girl had a tendency to look down on her business associates and scorn advice from her business superiors.

Such an attitude indicates a lack of intelligence and is, to put it mildly, undemocratic as well as being an appalling obstacle in the way of success.

But college women are by no means the sole victims of the superiority complex. It thrives sumptuously in the souls of many women who have never seen the inside of a college, but who feel superior because somebody else gave them food, service and station without return on their part. It even thrives in women who magnify maternity into something special and superior and expect the world to share their view. Thousands of capable women are dependents in the houses of relatives because of this fact.

None of us can go very far if we suffer from a superiority complex. No matter how much one knows, somebody else knows more or knows something different, which is equally valuable.

One of the big time things about the business woman is that she is comparatively free of the superiority complex even when she has risen to the head of her organization or has through her own efforts made a fortune.

THE LISTENING POST

By JAMES W. FOLEY

Strength.
Sobriety.
Intelligence.
Industry.

JAMES W. FOLEY

These are the cardinal virtues of those who from time to time have been enabled to rule themselves. And to rule the world.

These are the qualifications of those who will rule in the future.

Color is not important. The nation having the qualifications of strength, sobriety, intelligence and industry will continue to rule itself and the world as well.

It is not that such people shall set up a government of the world.

But they will lead it.

In morals, in wealth, trade, in respect.

For strong, sober, industrious and intelligent people will stand in the front rank.

And as with nations so with individuals in a nation.

Strength.
Sobriety.
Intelligence.
Industry.

These are the men who will stand up in the front ranks.

Strength of body.
Strength in morals.
Spiritual strength.
And all of the things that make up strength.
Courage.
Truth.

Fairness.
Justice.

Intelligence most of us are born with. Not necessarily special intelligence. It is not necessary that we shall all be geniuses.

It is well that we are not. But the intelligence that enables us fairly to solve the problems of every day.

To avoid the pitfalls set for us by the cunning and unscrupulous.

To distinguish between the statesman and the demagogue.

Sobriety is a cardinal. Nothing was ever lastingly achieved by a drunken nation or a drunken man.

Sobriety embraces a number of things. The restraint of bodily appetite.

The subduing of the passions and desires.

The checking of greed.

The restraining of hatred.

All of these things are within the domain of sobriety.

To walk uprightly and steadfastly and justly among men.

And then there is industry.

Wealth has been made by industry.

Not the wealth of gold and jewels.

But the wealth of manufactures and of crops and of woven wool and spun cotton and of hammered brass and drawn copper.

Industry means that all men shall labor cheerfully at a useful task.

Measure yourself by these things for they portend your future.

Mountains—By Scudder Middleton in the Bookman

The mountain seems to guard
The land that lies behind,
But I've been on the other side
And know what one can find.

The houses, roads and streets,
The men folk and the ladies,
Are pretty much the same one meets
In Buffalo or Cadiz.

A mountain can be stern
To human hand and toe—
And on the other side we learn
What we already know.

No mountain have I found
That guards a single thing.
Instead of up, I go around
And take what highways bring.

THE FRAGILE VESSEL

By DR. FRANK CRANE

I HAD hardly got back to my hotel in London when I received a telephone call from the hospital. It was from Dr. Sanford. He announced briefly that my young friend Markham was dead.

The news came as a shock, although I had been expecting it. No matter how long you have been anticipating death and how certain you are it is on the way, it always shocks you when it arrives. It is like trying to close a door which sticks and will not shut without slamming.

I hastened to the hospital. When the doctor took the sheet from Markham's face and gave me a last look, I was surprised at its serenity. I had known Markham for two or three years and had never seen his features when they were not agitated by some strong enthusiasm or emotion.

I went down with the doctor to his office and we talked a while. He had been both friends and physician to the deceased man.

"Markham," said Dr. Sanford, "was one of those men who are bound to be misunderstood. There are certain souls from whom, more than from others, we should withhold judgment. This boy was one of them. Nobody but the God who made him could consider his case with any sort of intelligent equity."

He was not like the rest of us. The trouble was that his emotions and impulses were entirely too strong for his machinery. Neither his body nor his mind was tough enough to withstand the forces they were made to contain.

"He was like a ship equipped with an engine of tremendous power, or such power as to rack, strain and eventually break the hull."

"There are people like that, I suppose," I replied.

"Yes," returned the doctor, "there are fragile vessels for whom life and its forces are too much."

"Take the matter of love, for instance. With some the coming of love is simply the gentle expansion of the soul, like the opening of a flower. They love, they mate and they bear children, and it is all as unexciting as moving from one house to another."

"There are others to whom every phase of this elemental instinct is a violent experience. Their whole affectional life is a series of volcanoes and earthquakes. Their progress from one phase to another is invariably a turbulent revolution, never a smooth evolution."

"That was Markham. When he fell in love with that woman all of us knew it. We could see that something had happened to him, something terrible and shattering. It was as if he had encountered some new element which had chemically changed his soul absolutely.

"And Diane was not a bad woman, nor even an unworthy one. She was good enough in her way. The trouble is, she was simply a large, beautiful cow, placid paste. She never understood Markham and the poor fellow wrecked himself against her immovability as one would smash a glass bulb against a stone."

"And it was the same with every other passion that Markham had. He could not drink easily like a gentleman. He drank, as he loved, like a madman."

"And it was the same way with his spiritual nature. He was deeply religious. But he had no ballast of common sense or normalcy suitable to carry his tremendous spread of sail. He wore himself out sinning and repenting. For him such a thing as poise and growth was impossible."

"The three great stimuli of men, intended to save him from brutishness and make them as gods, were the things that ruined him, broke his heart, wrecked his nervous system, and have left his body in there as a broken shell. Love, alcohol and God were too much for him. The vessel was too fragile."

(Copyright, 1923, by Dr. Frank Crane)

OBSERVED AT A GLANCE

Chancellor Stresemann says that the fight in the Ruhr has been lost, but does not commit himself as to who won it.

Southern California editors have canceled their usual junket. They can't bear to tear themselves from their work.

Too bad that a cave man never marries a cave woman, so that they can fight it out on merit.

Conditions in the Balkans seem to be normal, everybody urgently desirous of fighting his neighbor.

The Prince of Wales continues to travel incognito, with the entire populace recognizing him at a glance.

A princess on trial for murder in a London court finds that killing people is regarded as a serious affair over there.

"Lose a minute and save a life" is a new slogan for automobilists, but many continue to over-estimate the value of the minute.

EASTERN POINT OF VIEW

THE NATION'S LISTENING POST

[Washington Star]

President Coolidge, according to the callers at the temporary White House, is a master listener. He hears all they have to say, and says little himself, unless it is on some subject to which he has already given consideration and on which he has made up his mind.

The training of the President since March 4, 1921, has in a measure qualified him as a listening post for the nation. Until he succeeded to the presidency, by virtue of his office as vice president, he presided over the senate, where conversation is free and long, except for the presiding officer, who is the official audience of all that occurs. Former Vice President Marshall in an address, one of the few he made to the senate, before he retired after serving eight years as president of the senate, described himself as "the greatest listener since the Sphinx sat itself down in the Libyan desert."

But the fact that President Coolidge is a good listener does not mean that he cannot act quickly and effectively. He is a lawyer by profession.

COMMENT ON DAY'S NEWS

By HENRY JAMES

There is frequent mention of the cave man. On the screen he has thrilled many a crowd of movie fans, as they shivered delightedly with horror at his brutality.

HENRY JAMES

The cave man is any man who in relation to women is guided by the impolite rule "treat 'em rough." In theory he is supposed to knock down the lady of his choice with a club and drag her to his lair, using her tresses as a handle. He rules the domicile with a bludgeon. He has a low brow and the dental equipment of a gorilla. He enforces obedience but fails, as a rule, to win affection.

Thus has arisen the fashion of terming the domestic ruffian, particularly when his wife seeks divorce because weary of bruises, a cave man. These modern cave men quite often appear in court. Just recently the usual spectacle has been reversed, the husband bruising the sorry discovery that his mate is a cave woman. She is alleged to bite, kick, smash furniture, and in other ways to conduct herself in an unseemly fashion. These symptoms were him to the altar by the hair.

In a world where perfect justice ruled there would not be such unequal matches. The cave man and the cave woman would mate, and then fight it out at the hearthstone, not disturbing the world with their contentions.

Since Chancellor Stresemann of Germany admits that the fight in the Ruhr has been lost, the world wonders what is to come next. The admission means that passive resistance has been a failure. That it was to fail had seemed inevitable from the beginning to all those not engaged in promoting it.

If the supposition is that France is now to withdraw, bringing negotiations back to the basis that existed before the invasion, it seems to be based on a futile hope. Whatever may be the ethical conception as to the proper course, there is nothing in evidence to warrant belief that Germany would meet the demands in a spirit different from that manifest earlier, which was the spirit of contumely and uncompromising surliness.

Two men in Illinois have been arrested for flying while drunk in an airplane, which one of them, with ill success, sought to put through various stunts. They became tangled in telegraph lines and came down, both surviving the bump, a circumstance for which there is small inclination to congratulate them.

It had been supposed that the drunken automobile driver represented the climax of human folly, but he goes now into the second class.

A convicted robber declared in court that he had been double-crossed by his lawyer. Whether or not he had had this melancholy experience is not important. The important fact is that he is guilty of one of the desperate crimes that have made people uneasy, none knowing but himself was to be the next victim.

The judge listened to the prisoner, gave him a chance to prove his allegations, and then sent him to prison for life. Doubtless the convict now believes that he had been double-crossed again.

Passengers approaching a California town by train on a recent night, and not familiar with the lay of the land, wondered what city they were nearing. Soon they saw busy streets, and many illuminated signs, but not a single one revealing the identity of the place. Then far aloft flashed in big letters "Fresno," winking out for emphasis, and then flashing again.

It was a useful emblem, and the gentlemen who set it there were doing a public service.

Many people affirm that the growth of the narcotic habit has been caused in great measure by the absence of alcoholic stimulants. By citing statistics they are able to make out a strong case. The matter merits the closest inquiry.

If these people are right, two problems grow more complex. There is no desire to promote an alcoholic flood. At the same time, the narcotic habit, rapidly spreading, is a menace from which no stratum of society is free.

It is quite possible to exist, reasonably happy at that, in the absence of both alcohol and illicit drugs, but the theory is with difficulty impressed upon the sodden mind, and neither type of addict is eager to accept it.

Hair dressers in convention assembled have solemnly decreed the styles their patrons shall adopt. The styles happen to be ridiculous, expensive and inartistic, but were they admirable instead of obnoxious, the principle would be the same.

It is the business of hair dressers to dress hair. As to the manner of dressing, the wearer of the hair will be absolute dictator, if there is anything but ivory below the locks.

OUR CHILDREN

By ANGELO PATRI

I WANT TO GO TOO

There is a family across the street whose children interest us. They interest in spite of themselves and in spite of our best efforts not to become interested.

Every evening they set up a howling concert. "I want to go too." Then the play begins. Mother says, "I'm staying right here. Now go to sleep."

"No you aren't! I see you have your hat on. I want to go too!" "Now, see! I haven't my hat on. I'm staying right here. Now go to sleep."

"Meantime auntie comes tip-toeing out of the side door and shuts the door cautiously. She idles out of the gate and shuts it likewise. But stealthy as she is, she is not enough so for the alert watchers in the bedroom."

"There goes Auntie out of the gate! She's going to get the tickets and wait for you just like last time. I want to go too!"

That goes on for half an hour or so when they go to sleep from exhaustion and mother tip-toes down the walk and shuts the gate cautiously behind her.

"Did you ever make a fuss like that when your mother went out?" says Aunt Louise to Mary.

"No. My mother used to put me to bed and then come in with her hat and coat on and say good night and tell me to be good and sleep. That grandmother was in her room and would be on the lookout for me if there was anything needed. That's all."

"What about your own children? Do they make a fuss when you're going out and how to go too?"

"No. Once in a while Betty asks if she can go, but the others always tell her she can't. That she goes other times but not all times and she doesn't fret. I never heard anything like that!"

"I did," said grandmother. "Your little brother Ralph used to howl like an Indian when I put on my bonnet to go out. I'd tell him I was going and just when I'd be back, but he'd howl just the same and I had to go out and let him howl."

"I cured him by bringing home something he wanted and telling him that he couldn't have it because he had howled and when he learned to let people go about their business without screaming that he wanted to go too he might have it. Yes that stopped him."

"Certainly it would. They have been tricked and deceived until they don't trust anybody. Once they're taught that what you say is what you mean they act accordingly. Quite simple," said grandmother. "That's the way I cured Ralph."

CUBS WILL BEGIN GRIDIRON WORK THIS WEEK

Cline Will Sound Initial Call Wednesday; New Stands Being Built

Jimmy Cline, coach of the Southern Branch, University of California football squad, will sound the initial call for practice this week, following a football assembly to be held Wednesday afternoon. Sessions at the university opened this morning.

Before the practice starts it is difficult to make predictions about the prospects, but from the pre-season dope, something can be learned in regard to the Bruins' chances for the coming season.

For various reasons the Cubs have lost Timmons, crack quarterback of last year; Diehl, Plummer, Russell and Frost. Cecil Hollingsworth, Lorenz Rudy and "Moose" White, who was last year awarded the Muma trophy as the most valuable man on the team, have migrated to Berkeley.

Quite a bunch of last year's vets are back, and will be seen in uniform this season. Among these are Jack Sergel, center; Horace Breesee, end; Cap Haralson, end; Walt Wescott (captain), and Scotty Sanford, tackle, and Art Jones, half. It is reported that "Fuzzy" Thursty may be back in uniform.

Lorenz Rudy, who was ruled ineligible last season, will be back in uniform, and will attempt to fill the shoes of Gordon White.

No freshmen will be permitted to play on the varsity this season. This ruling was made by the conference when it was learned that the Southern Branch had been granted the third year, Harry Trotter, assisted by Leigh Bell, will coach the Peagreeners.

The Cubs will be given their first real test when the hook up with the alumni comes off, September 27. Until then no definite answer can be made in regard to the strength of the Bruins.

Four thousand dollars are being expended by the student body to provide for the erection of new bleachers on Moore field, meeting a serious need of the fast growing university. Several occasions on the athletic field last year were notable for the numbers of persons who had to stand.

The new additions, which are to be completed by October 1, will increase the present seating capacity to 5000. Construction was begun last week on the bleachers, which are to be of portable construction and 15 tiers high. They will continue the present grandstand 100 feet southward on the east side of the field. On the opposite side of the field they will extend practically the entire length of the gridiron.

Features of special convenience to rooters are the footboards which will be built into the new seats. Moreover, all boards used in connection with the construction have been planned on both sides and painted several times, thus reducing to a minimum the hazard of splinters.

THE WISE ONES ARE AT IT AGAIN

By Francis Wilkerson Read.

Now come the wise ones, in the guise of football experts, to tell us who will win the Pacific coast conference bacon this season. Doping out penant races is the great indoor sport of America. The joke of it is that the predictions seldom come true. California, they say, will lose two games. Idaho, U. S. C. are chosen to defeat the Golden Bears. This will be the third year now that they have told the fans that California was out of it, that Andy Smith could not produce another "Wonder Team." Each time the Bruins leave done the impossible. Although nine letter men and a flock of other valuable players are lost, Smith has lots of good men around which to build another "Wonder Team." Practice at Berkeley opened Saturday. When the Bears have played a few games it will be possible to see just what Andy has. In the meantime those who are predicting the results of the various encounters, will have an opportunity to watch their predictions come true or go up in smoke. That Stanford will win from U. S. C. but lose to California is the opinion of the wise ones. It may happen that way for all we know, but it is rather early in the season to do things out to such a fine point. But then, Quien sabe?

STRAND BREAKS OWN RECORD FOR SEASON HITTING

Paul Strand, Salt Lake center-fielder, yesterday surpassed his own world's record of 298 hits for a season. Strand made a hit yesterday, bringing his season's total to 299. He has thirty games yet to play.

Strand set a record for organized baseball when he batted out 289 hits last season. Jay Kirke, Louisville first baseman, made 282 safe hits during the 1921 season. "Hack" Miller, outfielder for the Chicago Cubs, was credited with 280 safe hits, while playing with Oakland in 1920.

SOUTH TO STAGE INVASION OF EAST

By HENRY L. FARRELL (United Press Sports Editor)

NEW YORK, Sept. 17 (United Press).—Up from the far south, a most imposing band of football raiders will soon start an invasion of the East and Middle West that will furnish the most spectacular feature of a most interesting schedule for the big college eleven.

The South had a fine representation in the inter-sectional games of the last season, but this year the colleges below the Mason-Dixon line will have the bulk of the feature inter-sectional conflicts.

Thirteen big games are scheduled between the South and the best teams in the East and the Middle West. Georgia Tech and North Carolina will lead the invaders with two big games each.

Georgia Tech has Penn State and Notre Dame on the schedule, and North Carolina has Yale and Penn State, and certainly those Southern boys cannot be accused of looking for soft spots.

Among the other big eastern games are Georgia vs. Yale, Centre vs. Pennsylvania, Tennessee against the Army, Florida against the Army, Alabama Poly against the Army, Arkansas Aggies against the Army, Alabama against Syracuse and Washington & Lee against Washington & Jefferson.

Two Southern teams will mingle in the Western conference, Van Dine, built playing another game with Michigan and the Mississippi Aggies meeting Illinois.

Conflicts between the East and Middle West are not as numerous as they were last season.

Notre Dame will again be a big card in the East, with three big games against the Army, Princeton and the University of Michigan. The games between the South Bend "Micks" and West Point and Princeton are among the most interesting games on the whole schedule.

Two Ohio teams will journey into the East, St. Xavier's of Cincinnati making its second appearance, against the Navy and the University of Dayton appearing for the first time in this section against Lafayette. Nebraska, the big power of the Missouri Valley conference, will make its annual appearance in the East against Syracuse. Washington and Jefferson is the only big Eastern team that will move westward, the Presidents having arranged a game in Detroit with the University of Detroit.

DEMPEY'S WIN ONE OF SHORTEST IN RING HISTORY

NEW YORK—Sept. 15.—Jack Dempsey's spectacular victory over Luis Angel Firpo takes rank as one of the shortest heavyweight title contests in history.

Records covering the past 20 years of major championship matches reveal but one shorter bout, the one-round victory of Tom Burns over Bill Squires of Australia at Colma, Calif., July 4, 1917. Three years prior to that James J. Jeffries, before his retirement had felled Burns to the floor, knocked out Jack Munro in two rounds at San Francisco.

Two years after he captured the world's title from John L. Sullivan in 1921, Jim Corbett stopped Charley Mitchell in three rounds. While Jess Willard's towel was not tossed into the ring at Toledo four years ago until the start of the fourth round, Dempsey was credited with a three-round knock-out.

Dempsey's first battle in defense of his title was a three-round knock-out over Billy Miske at Benton Harbor, Mich., in 1920.

CONFERENCE RACE FOR TITLE WILL BE CLOSE

Season Officially Starts Today With Intensive Practice

Real football work begins on numerous gridirons today. Occidental will play Stanford the first big game on October 20, at the coliseum. Several outside games are scheduled for Thanksgiving day.

The Southern California Conference is made up of Pomona, Occidental and Whittier colleges, Redlands university, California Institute of Technology, and University of California, Southern Branch.

This season gives every promise of being the biggest in the history of the organization, and not only are the teams at most of the institutions stronger than those of last year, but the schedules have been enlarged to take in a little more territory. Pomona and Caltech will also play U. S. C.; Pomona will also play the University of Hawaii conference colleges.

Pomona. With but a handful of lettermen back on the job, Pomona, 1922 champion, appears to be in for a lean grid year. Appearances are sometimes deceiving, however, and although Coach Eugene Nixon must build an entirely new eleven this fall, with an abundance of promising material to work with, the Sagehen may very well surprise the rest of the conference teams.

It is rumored that a coterie of stars from the San Diego Teachers' college are to enter Pomona, and will make a strong bid for jobs on the Sagehen eleven. Under the conference rules, transfers from State normal schools are eligible for varsity competition at once, and the usual year's lay-off is put aside. If these rumors be true, Pomona's line may stack up with the best of them this year.

Nixon has nothing to worry about with regard to his backfield. With men of the caliber of Clark, "Fuzzy" Merritt, and Bell to rely upon, he will be able to develop a dangerous quartet. Clark played sensational football last year at Pomona, and proved himself a great factor in the Sagehen's pass attack, as well as a broken-field runner of no little ability. Merritt called signals for the freshmen, and played great football throughout the season. He excels in all departments, offensively and defensively. Bell, a former star with Nevada, looms as one of the most dangerous backs Pomona has ever boasted.

Occidental. Occidental college, runners up for the conference title, face the 1923 season with the highest prospects in the West. From last year's team Capt. Corey, the most reliable field goal kicker in the South will be the chief loss, although Meeker, a tackle, Norton, quarterback and Walker, full-back will also be missing.

As the Tigers line up this season Coach Pipal will have a new Capt. Spang and Cliff Angie, the smart ends on the coast, both of whom return with considerable additional weight. Purcell and Johnson, alternates from last year also return. At tacklers Pipal will have Snoddy, from the 1921 freshman team who was not in school last year, and Jack Stevens of Santa Ana, and last year's star, Fredman. Snoddy weighs 200 and Stevens about 180, ready for action. Westrate, who played tackle last year, will probably be in the backfield.

For guards Pipal has Creighton, Goodenough and Davidson of last year's varsity, and Chandler from the freshmen. There is quite a possibility that Art Gary, the big full-back, may be converted into a guard because of his size and strength. Prialux is varsity center, remaining over from last year and it is rumored that Percy Reinius of the 1921 varsity may return and look for the pivot job.

In the backfield the three leading candidates for quarterback are Gordon Shoof, who alternated between his position and half-back last year, Goshay Smith of the freshmen and "Dempey" Creswell, last year's sub. Halfback jobs will be fought by Westgate, who played tackle last year and is a hard-line plunger and good interference man, Fibbers, of last year's varsity, and Wheeler and the two Davis brothers from last year's freshmen.

Caltech. Grid practice will be launched this afternoon at Caltech, with about thirty candidates expected to join the molekies for the initial workout. Although the institution's opening is yet a week away, with the Caltech-U. S. C. game but two weeks in the offing, Coach Fox Stanton realizes that he must get busy at once and whip his men into shape as rapidly as possible.

Ten veterans including six line men and four backs, are slated to report today. Capt. Holly Moyle, veteran of two seasons in a tackle berth for the Engineers, tops the list, and is the man around whom Stanton will build his line. Moyle played very good football last year, and with two years of varsity experience behind him, coupled with ten pounds of additional beef picked up during the summer, should be an even more dangerous tackle this year.

Spalla Brothers, Italian Boxers, Are Knighted After Giving Exhibition Before King and Premier

Erminio and Giuseppe Spalla, famous in Italy as wilders of the padded mitts, were knighted recently by King Victor Emmanuel after they had displayed their ring skill before the king and Premier Mussolini. Erminio, heavyweight champion of Italy and claimant of the title for the continent of Europe, was created Baron del Dittorio and his brother Cavaliere del Dittorio. Erminio has been planning to invade America and challenge Jack Dempsey. The photograph shows the titled pugilists doing road work while Erminio was training for a bout.

Harold Beck, veteran of two seasons at center, "Tooley" Smith, "Stew" Seymour, Mike Brunner and Ray Alderman are the other returning linemen. Smith and Seymour, playing their first year of varsity football last year, toward the end of the season developed into a great pair of guards. Alderman played a game at tackle, which almost equaled the work of Moyle, and Brunner proved a sensation at end in his first year of varsity competition.

Frank Foster, Fred Groat, Maury Goldsmith, and Dug Sellers are the backs expected to answer Stanton's call.

Jack Baker, hailing from last year's freshman squad, looms as Stanton's best bet for the fullback's shoes. He is heavy, plays a great defensive game, and plunges or runs the ends with like celerity. Johnson, Herrington, Stein, Stewart and Werden are other promising candidates coming up from the frosh squad.

Southern Branch. Jimmy Cline, head coach at the University of California, Southern Branch, announces that owing to the loss of having lettermen of last year, including Gordon White, the punter extraordinary, and to the conference ruling, by which he will be unable to play freshmen this year, football prospects at the Cub institution are anything but bright.

The following men can be counted on to come back and give a good account of themselves: Captain-elect Westcott, tackle; last year's captain, Harrison, end or back; last year's captain-elect, who was unable to play last year, Lorrin Peak, fullback, and Sergel, center; Hollingsworth, guard; Breesee, end; Jones, halfback, and Knudson, quarter. Several other men looked good last year as substitutes or at spring training, notably Obegi, Brown, Brenner, Giles, Kosopf, Bender and Robinson.

The Cubs' strength this year is a doubtful quantity. Cline must develop a quarter, a halfback to run with Jones, two guards, a tackle and an end. But if light, expert coaching and the most successful system evolved in recent years can accomplish anything, other conference teams will do well to watch them.

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Sept. 17.—Football is king at Stanford today. One hundred and eleven men, 55 of them freshmen and the balance of them aspirants for places on the varsity team, began their fall practice Saturday morning under the watchful eyes of Coach Andy Kerr, Coach Tiny Thornhill, Bud DeGroot, "Dink" Templeton, and others who will assist in rounding the 1923 varsity into shape.

The battle for positions on the varsity team which will represent Stanford during the present season promises to be an interesting one. There are six candidates for quarter, all of them good. There are six more who are fighting to represent the cardinal at fullback and an equal number of halfbacks are showing their wares. Foremost among the quarterbacks is John "Scotch" Campbell. "Scotch" has had a lot of experience in the rugby game in San Francisco and has the backing and interest of the fans there. Bud Woodward of Los Angeles, a veteran of the 1923

AMATEUR GOLF CHAMPIONSHIP TOURNAMENT ON

One week from today the cream of the Pacific Coast's golfers will tee off in the California Amateur Golf Championship tournament at Del Monte. Not only will the Golden Bear State be represented by close to four hundred golfers, but Oregon and Washington will send a delegation of players south to take part in this greatest of western tournaments.

It seems that many American low handicap players are insisting on each championship course being one that calls for a prodigious long game. The wisdom of this is doubtful. A course should surely be long enough to be a severe test of golf, but the idea of making all of the par four holes two wooden shots is rather running things into the ground.

The really great course should place the greatest premium on accuracy. The man with the extremely long tee shot should benefit only so much as his drive would give him a somewhat shorter approach than the short game player would have. In other words where the short player would require a full midiron for his second shot the longer player could get home with a mashie iron.

To get down to concrete take the fifteenth hole at Midwicket. This hole is less than 400 yards in length, but it is as difficult a par as one could imagine. The drive must be well placed to give one the open door to the green. Even then the second shot must be played with nice accuracy or the ball will drop into one of the deep, severe traps that guard the green.

Long holes are all right and every course should have a few. But the "slugger's" course puts altogether too much premium on distance.

Coming back to the State Championship at Del Monte here are courses of a different type. Both Pebble Beach and Del Monte give the long player a decided edge but the short man who is always down the center and can play his irons lead to the pin can be counted on to make a good showing.

It is more than possible that playing through the National will hurt the play of Willie Hunter and Norman Macbeth as well as State Champion Jack Nevills. A man cannot play two weeks of tournament golf at top speed and that is just what these players will have to do if they take part in the Del Monte play.

Here in Southern California are three players who are at the top of their game today. Freddy Wright, Everett Seaver and Scotty Armstrong are a dangerous trio under any circumstances and playing the type of golf they are they look almost unbeatable. Of the three there is little doubt but what Wright is playing the most impressive game.

Griffith Park. Records went flying at Griffith Park yesterday when a grand total of 835 golfers played the two courses. The new Riverside course was a favorite with a total of 461 playing. At the same time the old Hillside course was kept busy from daylight to dark with just 375 teeing off there.

Annandale. Bill Whitcomb, Harry Cline, Fred Leslie and Jack Malley made up a snappy foursome at Annandale yesterday. A threesome that certainly had elements of class was composed of Jim Orvitt, Ford Sterling and Nat Deverich. A. D. S. Johnston also played yesterday.

Pasadena. Dr. I. J. Waterman had the best gross score in the Pasadena sweepstakes, an 82. He played in place at halfback this season. Last year his speed was an important factor in Stanford's showing in the conference games. Frazier of San Francisco, Hamilton of Wesley, and Roberts of Los Angeles are others who are on Coach Kerr's string of halfbacks.

EHMKE PITCHES BOSTON RED SOX TO ANOTHER WIN

Howard Ehmke, former Glendale twirler, who pitched a no hit no run game a week ago, followed closely by a one hit no run battle, defeated the Cleveland Indians Saturday at Boston by an 11 to 6 score. The Red Sox cleaned up on everything in sight, knocking out 12 hits and killing off six Cleveland pitchers—and three catchers. The Indians got in their dirty work early in the game, gathering eight hits and six runs. After the sixth they couldn't touch Ehmke.

Although not quite as sensational as his last two games, Saturday's contest is another real victory for Ehmke, who stopped the Indians in the sixth, when they were leading by one run. His team-mates were able to come through with the necessary hitting, and swatted their way to victory.

Ehmke batted out one single out of three trips to the plate during the encounter.

BIG SEARCHLIGHT MENACE TO GAME

UKIAH, Sept. 17.—According to Nick Cocking, a prominent rancher and big game hunter of this city, there is grave danger of all the big game being driven into inaccessible parts of the county if the Mendocino county fair carries out its plan to have an enormous searchlight as a feature of the fair. The plan already adopted by the Fair Association is to import one of the United States army giant searchlights to play on the hills and give demonstrations during the fair from September 22 to 29.

Cocking has called a meeting of big game hunters for next Friday night, at which time plans will be formulated to take the matter up with the Fair Association on behalf of hunters.

Cincinnati Reds to Abandon Trip West

Word has been received that financial difficulties have forced the Cincinnati Reds to abandon their trip to the coast. This is to be regretted by baseball fans of the west, who had looked forward to seeing the runner up team of the National League meet the Pacific Coast league squads. It is reported that the Reds were unwilling to play on the 40-60 basis that they demanded 60 per cent win or lose. Baseball fans had anticipated a chance to compare the major and minor league teams as baseball machines under normal conditions, but it looks as though they will be disappointed.

Paul Donza vs. Dick McCarron, 128 pounds. Jimmy Brown vs. Harry Turner, 185 pounds. Jack Myatt vs. Ray Boyd, 150 pounds. Billy Ray vs. Kid Payo, 113 pounds. Many a man's nervousness is due to his lack of nerve.

drove up to Flintridge yesterday and played Senator Flint's picturesque course in 73 strokes. He played with Robert Fairbanks, Ted Reed and George Marshall. Dave Findlay, professional of the course, had a nice round of 74 yesterday, according to Paul Scott, assistant professional.

TWO WEEKS AT IDYLLWILD

Including 2-day Horseback Trip to San Jacinto Peak $67.50

Including fare from Los Angeles and return. A Special Rate during the Year's Most Perfect Month in the Mountains. The best that California has to offer in Mountain and Desert Scenery. Hotel Fare and Camping Trip Accommodations. The horseback trip to the Peak is pronounced the most wonderful in the West. Peak Trips start from Idyllwild Inn at 8:30 a. m.

Sept. 7th, 11th, 14th, 18th, 25th. Arrive at Round Valley, 1500 feet below Main Peak, at 4:30 P. M., after luncheon at Tahquits Meadows and an hour at Hidden Lake, where a wonderful desert view is had. The Keeper of the Hut, Dad Chapman, will have a campfire supper, piping hot. After supper stories are told and a big bonfire, and then the sleep on the mattresses until 12:30 A. M., when, after a cup of hot coffee and a sandwich, the climb is made to the Peak in the early dawn, and you see the sun rise out of the desert 12,000 feet below. Back to Round Valley and a breakfast of ham and eggs, hot cakes and coffee, and the return trip to Idyllwild is begun at 9 o'clock. Arriving at the Inn by easy stages at 4 o'clock, where a hot bath and a big dinner round out the best mountain trip in the west.

All this including round trip ticket from Los Angeles $67.50 and two weeks' board and lodging at the Inn for.....

Secure your round trip ticket at the Pacific Electric Station. Make your reservations in the regular way.

BRILLIANT STARS
IN GREAT PLAY
AT THE T. D. & L.

A musty old moat, with its forbidding waters and all of its grim and realistic detail, was constructed about the big castle exterior erected for scenes in the Selznick production, "Rupert of Hentzau," which is enjoying such a splendid run at the T. D. & L. theatre.

Moats, which have come down from medieval times and which always form one of the important chapters of novels of castles and European kingdoms, were used in olden days as a protection to keep enemies from entering the castle. The moat consisted of a wide and deep ditch filled with water, and it completely surrounded the castle or fortress. The only egress was over a drawbridge which was raised in times of danger. It was, also, the custom to raise the bridge at night to bar the entrance of midnight intruders.

In "Rupert of Hentzau" the hero, Rudolph, is forced to swim the moat under the cover of darkness, and climb the castle wall in order to aid the queen who is inside the castle. This is one of the many compelling incidents in Anthony

GREAT ZANE GREY
AT THE GATEWAY

Zane Grey's wonderful story of red-blooded men and heroic women, of a blood feud with all its horrors and a vindictive, hate-inspired conflict until two neighboring families were wiped out "To the Last Man," is the thriller at the Gateway today. Here is a vivid description of one tense moment in this great film masterpiece:

"And suddenly it seemed that death itself shuddered in her soul. Too late! It was too late. She had killed her love. That Jorth blood in her—that poisonous hate—had chosen the only way to strike this noble Isabel to the heart. Basely with an abandonment of womanhood, she had mockingly perjured her soul with a vile lie. She writhed, she shook under the whip of this inconceivable fact. Lost! Lost! She wailed her misery. She might as well be what she had made Jean Isabel think she was. If she had been ashamed before, she was now abashed, degraded, lost in her own sight. And if she would have given her soul for his kisses, she now would have killed herself to earn back his respect."

Hope's novel, and the director has succeeded admirably in getting the author's spirit of adventure into the scenes. Taking part in these scenes are Elaine Hammerstein, Bert Lytell, Hobart Bosworth, Bryant Washburn and Adolphe Menjou.

FROZEN-FACED COMEDIAN AT THE GLENDALE

A super attraction for Glendale patrons of the silver screen is Buster Keaton, the frozen-faced comedian, in his initial six-part feature, "Three Ages," at the Glendale theatre today. It is built on a monumental scale, showing the grandeur of Rome, the life of prehistoric man and the luxury of the modern world. It is a burlesque on civilization in the stone, Roman and modern ages. The scenery and marvelous effects rival in magnificence that of Robin Hood.

Beside this great feature there is current news, topics and Aesop's fables, and Paul Carson is at the organ.

FLAG OF INDIA
LEADS TO JAIL

NAGPUR, India, Sept. 17.—Because of their persistence in displaying the national flag of India, the local jail now shelters 540 Indians and the number is growing. The flag is purposely carried in parades, with the knowledge that the marchers will be apprehended. Arrests take place daily, and it is felt here that the issue may become national. "Gandhi Day" has been designated as "Flag Day" for processions and display of the tricolor emblem.

VETERANS OF THE SPANISH WAR
HOLD JUBILEE

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Sept. 17.—The silver jubilee of the Spanish war veterans commences here tomorrow, with leaders of the factions in the Civil war and other prominent national personages in attendance. Special trains from California, New York, and other sections, and an overland caravan from Indiana, brought scores of visitors to the city and by Monday nearly 20,000 delegates from every section are expected to be in attendance.

Sham battles, reunion of troops pageants and other functions are on the program. The national commanders-in-chief of the Grand Army of the Republic and the United Confederate Veterans and the women's auxiliaries will meet during the convention. In addition, governors of Georgia, Tennessee, Alabama, and other states have signified their intentions of participating in the program, while a number of federal officials and prominent men and women of the country have been invited.

Tuesday, the sixtieth anniversary of the Battle of Chickamauga of the Civil war, will be celebrated with a review of the charge of Snodgrass hill. In commemoration of the anniversary of the Spanish war, the department of New York, will present the city of Chattanooga with a bronze tablet inscribed with the bust of the late President Theodore Roosevelt Wednesday. The bust is made from the gun mount of the battleship Maine.

The Military Order of Serpents, an organization of soldiers, will hold its convention in connection with the encampment. The annual crawl of the serpents will be staged Wednesday evening. Business sessions of the convention will be held daily. Michigan City, Ind., and Cincinnati, Ohio, already have launched strenuous campaigns to secure the next annual convention.

An extensive collection of Civil and Spanish war relics will be displayed in connection with the encampment here. These relics and documents of historic interest include a picture of the gun crew that fired the first shot in the Spanish war.
